Be Inspired at the Dulux FREE Interior Design Advice Centre

IN ANTICIPATION OF THE OCTOBER BANK HOLIDAY IDEAL HOME SHOW, ELAINE McHALE OF HOMEINTERIORS.IE ADVISES PEOPLE TO BE BRAVE WITH COLOUR

The Dulux Free Interior Design Advice Centre has been one of the key attractions at the Ideal Home Show for the past three years. It's a valuable service provided by the Institute of Designers in Ireland and it focuses on exactly what people need – quick, easy-to-implement and affordable interior advice. And we won't just be talking paint colour, we'll also be looking at the key pieces and features in your home.

As the designers have just 15 minutes with each visitor, it helps to have some ideas and to know what you like, and to bring a photograph of the room you want to revamp. We can help you create your own personalised space – we'll look at all the elements in the room and send you off with a list of recommended colours and new ideas.

The great thing is you can do a lot more for less in the current climate but for a quick, easy make-over, paint and accessories will do the trick. We have seen a move away from the monotone colours of the last five or ten years in favour of more adventurous shades. People are looking to create homes with more personality and character. There's a definite move towards stronger colours this year and purple has become popular recently. It's a daring colour, especially in its deepest tones, but easy to match and it looks great in the bedroom or living room.

The best thing with paint is that it's quick, low cost and big impact and you can always paint over it if you want a change. And don't simply think walls when thinking colour; I recommend clients look at all interior elements – floors, ceilings, windows, light fixtures, accessories or anything else that will add some colour.

We're all spending a lot more time at home and whatever you decide to do, decorate based on your personal style and tastes – remember it's your sanctuary!
